| Yes                      | 5/15/18 Alexander; 6/22/18 Kunkle; 7/10/18 Cuker, Kunkle, Rajasekhar | Ms. Paquette is an employee of Boehringer Ingelheim, which markets dabigatran, a direct oral anticoagulant. For the ASH VTE guidelines project, Ms. Paquette has made important contributions to a systematic review to address the following question: “Should supplementary patient education in addition to basic education received by most patients vs. no supplementary patient education be used for patients receiving oral anticoagulation therapy for VTE treatment?” The question was formulated by the ASH Guideline Panel on Optimal Management of Anticoagulation. The eight studies included in the review were in patients receiving a vitamin K antagonist, mainly warfarin.

In our opinion, Boehringer Ingelheim will not be affected by this review regardless of its conclusions. If conclusions are positive, any company that markets an oral anticoagulant might use this information to promote the effectiveness of its drug, i.e., Boehringer Ingelheim would not be advantaged. If conclusions are negative, all such companies will be equally disadvantaged or equally unaffected.

Similarly, we do not think that Boehringer Ingelheim is affected (advantaged or disadvantaged over other companies that market oral anticoagulants) by any recommendation for or against such education by the ASH Guideline Panel on Optimal Management of Anticoagulation. |
Thus, we do not think that Ms. Paquette’s employment with Boehringer Ingelheim is an actual conflict of interest with her work on this review.

We recognize, however, that her employment could be a perceived conflict. To address this, the following management strategies have been used:

- Ms. Paquette’s role on the ASH VTE guidelines project is limited to this specific review. She is not a member of any ASH guideline panel and has not contributed to any other reviews informing ASH guidelines.
- Her work on each step of this review has been supervised by an individual without conflicts (Dr. Robby Nieuwlaat). Other individuals without conflicts are also contributing to the review.
- Ms. Paquette did not attend any in-person or online meetings of the guideline panel. She was not permitted and did not contribute to any of the deliberations of the panel or to the writing of the guideline manuscript.

| Yes                      | 9/24/18 Alexander, Kunkle, Rajasekhar | For the ASH VTE guidelines project, Dr. Rodriguez screened titles and abstracts for a systematic review on patient values and preferences. This review informed all of the ASH VTE guidelines (prevention in medical patients, prevention in surgical patients, diagnosis, treatment, optimal management of anticoagulation, thrombophilia, pediatric VTE, VTE in the context of pregnancy, HIT, and VTE in patients with cancer).

During her work on the review, Dr. Rodriguez received direct payments from Roche for expert testimony about guideline development methods. Roche markets thrombolysis drugs and diagnostic assays, reagents and instruments used for anticoagulation monitoring and testing.

In our opinion, this is not a conflict because the review did not address any specific interventions by Roche or any for-profit company; instead, the review examined patient values around outcomes such as thrombosis and bleeding that are common to many interventions used to manage VTE.

Nevertheless, to address possible concerns about perceived conflict, the following management strategies have been used:

- Dr. Rodriguez did not have a leadership role on the review.
- Her work on the review has been supervised by an individual without conflicts (Yuan Zhang). Other individuals... without conflicts are also contributing to the review.

- Dr. Rodriguez did not attend any in-person or online meetings of any of the ASH guideline panels. She was not permitted and did not contribute to any of the deliberations of the panels or to the writing of the guideline manuscripts.

On 9/24/2018, Dr. Rodriguez confirmed all information in this form.
